

- The system will continue to work as long as $(n / 2) + 1$ nodes are alive
- Consensus algorithms typically require a lot of interaction between the nodes
- Consensus algorithms offer high availability and data consistency, but relatively poor throughput and relatively high latency

Eventual consistency