

Strong consistency in a single-node system is relatively easy

Many RDMS (e.g Postgres) already offer
Atomic, Consistent, Isolated and Durable (ACID) transactions

But a single-node system is also way more likely to fail

